French Stokers Threaten Strike If Ships Are Dry

Usual Daily Ration Of Wine Demanded By French Crews

ACTION RAISES NEW QUESTION

Foreign Laws and U. S. Court Edict At Variance

By Associated Press

Paris June 5.—The threat of strikers firemen on French steamers to strike unless assured they will receive a usual daily allowance of wine when in New York harbor, has raised an issue that probably will be made the subject of diplomatic correspondence with Washington.

Meanwhile steamship officials intimate that the LaFayette, sailing for Harve, on Saturday, and other French ships, will be supplied with the usual stock of beverage liquor for the men, as provided by the law.

The ministry of merchant marine and commerce makes the point that French vessels are French territory and are therefore subject to French law. Their view has been incorporated in a note that will be turned over to Premier Poincare for transmission to Washington. It is understood that the communication will insist that French seamen retain their title to two litre of wine daily.

The French line has not yet made known its final policy with respect to the United States territorial ban on liquor. The LaFayette will be the first steamer affected by the threatened strike of stokers and firemen.

WORTHINGTON HERE ON RIVER BUSINESS

J. W. Worthington spent a considerable portion of the day here Monday in conference with members of the Tennessee Valley Improvement Association and doing office work in connection with his duties as executive secretary of the association.

Mr. Worthington was seen by but few residents of the Twin Cities as he kept closely in his hotel busy on the details of his plans and answering letters which he dictated to his stenographer.

In a conversation with John W. Knight, Mr. Worthington said he was glad to notice that Albany had raised most of its quota for the Improvement Association and stated that he was in hopes none of the communities or cities along the Tennessee river would fail of their quotas.

As usual Mr. Worthington was extremely optimistic as to the acceptance by Congress of the Ford bid for Muscle Shoals when that body meets this winter.

He said, "We already have the victory won; it is now our part to hold our own, and victory is assured."

MEMBERS OF BAR ADVISED TODAY

Official Announcement Of Decision Made Public Today

Judge John H. Clarke

Another war impends, according to former Supreme Court Justice John H. Clarke, and he has appealed, at Youngstown, O., to the "younger soldiers of the nation" to organize the country for peace. "War may come again in three years, it may come in ten," he said, "but it is inevitable. If they go earnestly about it, the three or four million young men in the United States can compel an organization in our country for peace such as never has been seen in any nation in the history of the world."

Chicago Jurist, Former Resident of Morgan County Is Called by Death

(By the Associated Press.)

CHICAGO, June 5.—Judge Thomas Windes, 75, who for more than 31 years, occupied benches in Illinois circuit and appellate courts, died late last night at his home. Funeral services will be held tomorrow afternoon.

Five years ago the Judge and Mrs. Windes, who has since died, celebrated their golden wedding anniversary. The jurist is survived by four children. He was born in Morgan County, Alabama, on June 9, 1848 and left an academy at Huntsville, Ala., at the age of 16 to join Forest's cavalry in the Confederate army.

The spring term of the Morgan County circuit court, scheduled to have been held on June 11, has been postponed and probably will be held in August, it was announced Tuesday by Judge O. Kyle, of the court.

Judge Kyle pointed out that the farmers of the county have been delayed from planting, and cultivating their crops because of the weather conditions. It was said that a term of court in June would have worked a hardship on the farmers.

Judge Kyle's announcement of the postponement of court follows:

June 5, 1923.
Mr. J. L. Draper, Clerk of Circuit Court.

Dear Sir: Because of the bad weather which has prevented the farmers of this county from planting or cultivating their crops, I have decided that it will be best to continue the term of Circuit Court which has heretofore been set to convene on June 11, 1923, to a later date. You will therefore advise the members of the local bar of this ruling, informing them that the court will not be held until some time in August, 1923, the definite date to be hereafter set.

Please also give this information to the County newspapers so that by its publication parties, witnesses and jurors who have been summoned to the court in June will be advised that it will be unnecessary for them to attend.

Your prompt action in this matter will doubtless save expense to the county.

Very truly yours,
O. KYLE,
Presiding Judge.

Action Deferred On Golf Link Purchase

Following an informal meeting of the Golf and Country Club held at the Colonial building last night, it was decided to adjourn the meeting with the understanding that another meeting be held Friday night at the same place beginning at 7:30. A decision is now being sought by the club, as to the exact location of its proposed golf links, it is said.

At the close of the civil war he studied law at the University of Virginia, taught school for a year and in 1870 was admitted to the bar in Tennessee. He came to Chicago in 1872.

It was one of Chicago's most severe winters and in order to earn a livelihood the young lawyer drove one of the old "bob tailed" horse cars on the Southside for 16 hours a day, supplementing his pay by serving as a janitor of a church.

He was admitted to the Illinois bar in 1880 and was appointed to the bench in 1892 to fill a vacancy. He has been successively elected ever since.

Freight Is Said To Have Struck Physician Tuesday Morning

INSTANT DEATH FOLLOWS IMPACT

Funeral Services Will Be Held Wednesday From Residence

The body of Dr. W. R. Staten, who was killed near Flint today, was removed to his late residence after being embalmed by a local undertaker. Dr. Staten is said to have been struck by a freight train on the L. & N. railroad this morning and killed almost instantly. His body was badly mangled.

The deceased is survived by the following: his wife, three sons: W. T. Staten of Flint; A. B. Staten of Paint Rock; Edward Staten of Albany, and six daughters: Mrs. P. M. Daniel of Flint, Mrs. J. W. Robinson of Trinity, Mrs. J. C. Smith of Chevalle, Tenn., Mrs. C. E. Scott of Birmingham and Miss Glenn Staten, who lives with her mother at Flint. Dr. Staten was formerly a practicing physician and well and favorably known in North Alabama.

Relatives announced today that funeral services would be held Wednesday from the residence.

Reports of the death of Dr. Staten were received here this morning at the time the Louisville & Nashville accommodation reached here from the south and at first the report was current that the aged man was killed at an early hour this morning by a Louisville & Nashville passenger train but later relatives stated that Dr. Staten was struck by a south-bound freight train.

Accounts agree that the aged man was walking along the railroad near Flint about the time the accommodation was due from the south when he was struck, death resulting instantly.

Immediately following his death Dr. Staten's body was removed to the northbound accommodation and turned over to an undertaker at the Albany depot.

Lone Policeman Holds Mob at Bay

(Associated Press.)

New York, June 5.—A lone policeman with drawn pistol held back several hundred persons today, in order to enable William Mooney, a suface car motorman, to flee the upper East Side crowd, which had stoned the car after it had killed a baby. The mother shouted that Mooney's carelessness was responsible for the tragedy.

Under the policeman's protection Mooney escaped through one of the broken windows and sought refuge in a car barn two blocks away.

I am going just for a rest, absolutely, that is all."

MEDAL GIVEN "BRAVEST GIRL IN AMERICA."

Miss Mary Buhner

Miss Mary Buhner of New York, is recognized as the "bravest girl in America." She has been awarded the American Red Cross "bravest" valor-honor and the bravery medal of the Carnegie Institute as a tribute to her courage in making a valiant fight in Tampa Bay, Fla., last year to save Miss Dorothy McClatchie, a friend, who had been attacked by a barracuda while swimming. The girls were half a mile from shore when Miss McClatchie's leg was almost severed by the sea tiger. Swimming in a pool of blood, Miss Buhner towed the dying girl to shore, while sharks broke the water all about them, drinking in the victim's life blood.

TENNESSEE VALLEY BANKERS CONVE

Following the boat ride Monday afternoon, which was attended by the employees of the Tennessee Valley bank throughout North Alabama, their wives, directors and their wives, the meeting of the Tennessee Valley bank Association closed its convention with a banquet and business session at the Kiwanis club rooms in Decatur last night.

Of the sixty-two employees and officers of the Tennessee Valley Bank, fifty-four were present, which with the wives and the bank directors and their wives made a total of near one hundred.

A splendid menu was served by the ladies of the Decatur Baptist church, which was followed by a short business session interspersed with "stunts." The address of welcome was delivered by S. A. Lynne, chairman of the board of directors, who paid a high tribute to the loyalty and faithfulness of those in the employ of the bank and complimented them on results accomplished.

This was responded to by E. J. Henninger, manager of the Tusculum office, who spoke of his vision of a still greater institution with 50,000 satisfied customers and ten millions on deposit. This was followed by the annual address of the President of the Association, O. C. Hackworth of Florence. Brief talks were made on topics of interest and the stunts committee entertained with their program.

The newly elected officers of the association are: J. C. Carter, Manager Russellville office, President; C. E. Barclay, Manager Haleyville office, Vice President; I. V. Timberlake, teller Decatur office, Secretary.

The meeting just closed is the sixth annual convention of employees, the first having been held in 1917 at which time there were only 39 members. It was the expressed opinion of many in attendance that yesterday's meeting was the best ever held by the association.

BAND PRACTICES

The regular weekly band practice of the Albany-Decatur concert band was held last evening at the rooms of the Albany-Decatur chamber of commerce. The attendance was good and much interest and enthusiasm manifested.

MORE POWER TO THE TWIN CITY PARENT-TEACHER ASSOCIATIONS.

The accomplishments of the Parent-Teacher Associations of the Twin Cities are worthy of special note. Until the opening of the schools this fall they will rest on their laurels to a certain extent, as the schools are out and the children scattered. There are plans maturing now, however, which if put into effect during the next school year will greatly increase the service of the associations.

Neither one of the high schools, the one in Decatur or the one in Albany has made full arrangements for the furnishing of the new buildings or for beautifying the grounds about the new structures. The people generally will look to the members of the Parent-Teacher Associations to lead out in the matter of furnishing everything needful for the two fine new school buildings next year.

The past year has been one of great accomplishment for the associations. It appeared in the address of the president of the Parent-Teacher Association of Albany, at the laying of the Albany high school corner stone, that the students in all the grades have received much good from the association. What is true of the service rendered by the Parent-Teacher Association in Albany is also true as to what the Decatur Parent-Teacher Association has done for the school children of Decatur. Perhaps the same tasks were not attempted. The needs of the children determined what the association should do in every instance.

To begin with the primal needs of school children, namely good wholesome food, the understanding is that no Parent-Teacher Association allows any of the school children to become undernourished, if it is possible to prevent it.

If the associations did nothing more than look after the bodily wants of the school children, their existence would be amply justified. It is understood that one of the Parent-Teacher Associations of the Twin Cities, during the past year, furnished 15 free noonday lunches every day of the school year as long as the need existed. Fifteen free meals a day for needy children is no little accomplishment. And on top of that record it is a fact that the cafeteria serving these free meals stayed out of debt and even has a small balance in bank. This record for thrift on the part of a Parent-Teacher Association is a valuable one and one that cannot be too closely followed by all our organizations. The immediate tasks of the Parent-Teacher Associations are to beautify the school grounds and to furnish the new high school buildings. Big and important tasks, but they will be accomplished as surely as the Parent-Teacher Associations of the Twin Cities continue to function.

WHEN PROFITEERS KNOW WARS WILL NOT PROFIT, THERE'LL BE NO WAR.

It has been said of the dead who fell in battle that they died with the thought that "There is something more precious than life; there is something more necessary than life, since we are here." But if soldiers are led to believe at the close of a great conflict that they fought for an unappreciative people more anxious for profit than for the good of the nation, to die does not seem so inviting.

Figures teach little, but there is some significance in this record that "we came out of the war with 200,000 dead and 23,000 new millionaires." Is it not plain to the dullest understanding that shared this opinion from the following statement taken from his memorial day address at the Arlington cemetery where 50,000 of America's fallen dead repose:

In our fuller understanding of today, in that exalted consciousness that every citizen has his duty to perform, and that his means, his honor, and his life are his country's in a time of national peril, in the next war, if conflict ever comes again, we will not alone call to service the youth of the land, which has, in the main, fought all our wars, but we will draft every resource, every activity, all of wealth, and make common cause of the nation's preservation. God grant that no conflict will come again, but if it does, it shall be without profit to the non-combatant participants except as they share in the triumphs of the nation.

President Harding indicates that it may be impossible to prevent all war for the future but he does seem to believe that the American people have it within their power to be "influential in combatting the world to the triumphs of peace and making hateful to human kind the spoils of war."

Even now those who love the spoils of war are the people to be feared. They are the ones, if the way opens, who will seek to lead this nation into war. One of the best ways of curbing the vultures of war is to make it plain to them, as President Harding tried to do in his Arlington speech, that there are to be "no spoils of war" if there should come war once more. The full belief and knowledge that the "bad" will not profit by another war will all but prevent another war.

THE ROLE OF "SWEETIE."

A wise father who raised three sons well on limited means, while deploring the speed with which several of their college mates went to the dogs because of liberal spending allowances from home declared that the most successful way to ruin a good, loving, high spirited youth in a big city was to fill his pockets full of money and turn him loose.

The observant father added that youths of this kind are quite popular so long as they have "money to burn," and most of their erstwhile friends carry a box of matches handy.

The other day a youth of that sort took poison on the streets of Chicago after traveling a fast life. As he sank to the pavement he handed a passerby a slip of paper on which was a telephone number, and said: "Call my sweetie to see me die."

The well-directed lexicons do not carry the word "sweetie," perhaps for the reason that it is not old enough to claim a position in dignified standing. In this particular case, however, "sweetie" seems to have been a divorcee who manifested her interest in the reckless young man by declining to visit the hospital where he lay in a dying condition.

There is a suspicion that ladies who come under the "sweetie" class are not so easily appealed to after the funds have been exhausted. On the very next day a business man in New York, 89 years old, found his financial affairs badly entangled, and when efforts were made to get two "sweeties" who had assisted in bringing about the situation, to go to court and aid in untangling things, they sent word that the court room scene would be a severe strain, and begged to be excused.

It appears that the interest of "sweeties" is hard to hold when funds run low. Yet neither the Chicago youth nor the elderly New York financier seemed to realize this until a general change in the situation took place.

A contemporary parses "sweetie" as a "common noun, feminine gender, either second or third person, singular number, either case, and of dynamic derivation," and adds that "sweeties roam singly or in pairs and feed on the follies of the opposite sex." In many cases they possess both brains and beauty, according to reports, while frequently there's an unseen master-mind pulling the strings on a commission basis. It is an effective combination on the spirited youth with a fat roll or an old man with a ravenous appetite for flattery.—Age Herald.

If there was some way to lease out bullies there would be a revolution of sentiment as to the Alabama convict lease system.

Never find your delight in another's misfortune.—Publius Syrus.

YOUR CALLS

THERE are some women who really seem to delight in making their calls on other women just when those calls will cause the most embarrassment. Mrs. Jones, who has three or four servants and no household responsibilities, seems to enjoy dropping in on Mrs. Smith, who has three children and no servants, at about nine in the morning, finding the Smiths in considerable disorder. Mrs. Smith in an ill-fitting morning dress, and the youngest of the Smith children in his most peevish mood. Mrs. Jones explains that she had important committee work to discuss with Mrs. Smith; but she could just as well have telephoned her errand or at least have telephoned to warn Mrs. Smith of her arrival.

Then there are the people who always call when they know you have house guests. They drop in Sunday afternoon possibly when you have planned to take a stroll over to the Country club or to go motoring or rambling through the country.

There are some people whom you like very well and whose presence is a pleasure when you meet them after working hours whom you would very much rather not have come to see you at your office or place of business. The day they select to drop in is sure to be your busiest day. "Don't let me disturb you at all," they say, as they tuck themselves into a chair in your office. "I haven't anything else to do so I'll just sit here with a book or a magazine until you are ready to go out for luncheon." Or possibly if you have no office of your own they send in for you to come to see them in the outer office of the establishment where you work, or sit on a stool in front of the counter where you work as salesperson, little realizing that they are jeopardizing your position, possibly, by being seen there during business hours.

There are times when the short call is required by courtesy, but to make that call long is extremely inconsiderate. So when there is illness in a friend's household you should call to inquire for those who are ill and also to ask whether you can be of any service, but your call, if you wish to make yourself a welcome caller, should not be extended over more than five or ten minutes. Likewise a call of condolence should be extremely short, unless, of course, it is perfectly patent that in making it longer you are of actual assistance or comfort.

PROPER PLACING OF MIRROR

Matter to Which Housewife Should Give Careful Attention Before Making Final Decision.

A mirror in a dull gold frame is a very decorative and useful item in any furnishing scheme, but the position which it is to adorn must be carefully thought out. A long mirror at the end of a narrow, dark hall will do wonders towards giving a sense of light and space, especially if it runs right down to the floor, with a few flowers in an old brass pot standing in front of it.

A mirror along one side of the bath will protect the walls and impart an air of cleanliness to a stuffy bathroom—an apartment which in small flats so frequently suffers from lack of light and air. Over the dressing room mantelpiece is a favorite place for a large mirror, but it is rather an ordinary idea, and may be improved by placing the looking-glass across one corner of the room, in front of a small table bearing old china. If this corner is directly opposite the door, so much the better; it will give quite a vista to the room.

Never hang a mirror on the wall facing the head of the bed. It will irritate the occupant, and throw any light it catches straight into the eyes.

At the head of a staircase a mirror is perhaps found of the greatest advantage, and when it hangs in such a position there should be nothing else near it, and the walls should be either plainly distempered or papered.

Contents of Pound Loaf of Bread. A pound loaf of bread contains about eight ounces of starch, which serves as fuel for the body; one and a half ounces of protein, which in addition to serving as fuel helps to build and repair the body machinery; one ounce of water and a half ounce of fat, sugar and mineral substances, which latter help to make bones and teeth.

Royal Flower Gifts Barred. There is an old superstition in the English royal family that it is unlucky for a royal lover to send presents of flowers to his bride-to-be.

Moulton Had Prohibition Long Before Kansas Solons Even Dreamed Of It

Following is receipt of reports from the Hartselle celebration of a few weeks ago, held there in honor of Prof. Jesse Nash and Captain Z. F. Freeman, the son of Captain Freeman, wrote an appreciative letter to Prof. J. C. Tidwell, the chairman of the permanent Freeman-Nash Association. In his letter Mr. Freeman who is now President of the Merchant's National Bank of Topeka, Kansas enclosed a "school circular" of historic value used by Captain Freeman, when that educator was principal of that high school at Moulton, a copy of which is as follows:

MOULTON HIGH SCHOOL
Principal Z. F. Freeman, A. M.
Assistants

D. C. Johnson John Collier.
This institution will commence its next session on the 8th day of August next, under more favorable auspices than ever. An excellent teacher has been added to its corps of instructors. Steps have been taken to improve and beautify the grounds occupied by the school. Arrangements are made also to furnish classes with the use of the apparatus necessary for illustrations in Philosophy, Chemistry, etc.

Moulton has proved itself an excellent place for an institution of learning. It has pure air, fine springs of water and varied scenery. Its location is healthy, retired and quiet, remote from causes that dissipate and distract the mind from study. The sale of intoxicating liquors is prohibited by law.

It is accessible by a daily line of coaches from Courtland. Fare $1. Rates of Tuition from $10 to $25. Incidental fee $1 in advance. No deduction for absent except half the time lost in cases of protracted sickness. No young men of character or habits need apply for admission. For any further information address the Principal, or Wm. F. Owen, Secretary, Thos. M. Peters, President, Moulton, Ala., July 26, 1889.

The Kansas banker referred to this circular in his letter to Prof. Tidwell which is as follows:

MERCHANTS NATIONAL BANK
Topeka, Kansas.
F. W. Freeman, Pres.

May 22, 1923.

Prof. J. C. Tidwell,
Hartselle, Ala.,
My Dear Mr. Tidwell:

Confirming the expressions in my telegram of the 11, I want to again assure that the action of yourself and other pupils of my father was most gratifying to mother and me. Especially are we glad to know that a perpetual organization has been effected in honor of his works and of his successors in the schools of Morgan County.

I have very pleasant memories of your father and mother, and brothers and sister, when you lived so near to us although I recall that your mother passed over years ago and I fear that your father may not still be with you and I know that your brother Peter did not long survive his youth.

It is a long time, but it seems only yesterday that I was toddling around in the mud between Simpson's and Troup's and Woodall's stores and playing around the old cotton gin with Clanton and Nat Miller, Percy Howell,

Our idea of absolute monotony is money that is inexhaustible, love that is never fickle, married life that is always harmonious and life that is really endless.—Richmond, Times-Dispatch.

Charlie Stephenson, Edgar Simpson, some of the Tidwell boys, and others. I am enclosing a copy of announcement of opening of the Moulton high school in 1889, which will be an interesting reminder that Father used to require the boys to be good before and after they entered school; and also that Moulton adopted prohibition long before Kansas solons gave it a thought.

On account of infirmities of age and results of an accident which left Mother using a crutch, I fear she will never be able to visit Alabama again, but her heart is often there with those of her family who are living and the friends of early days.

Trusting that you and yours will continue well and prosper, I am,
Sincerely yours,

Walter Hiers, which will be at the Princess Wednesday.

Autoists can imagine the comedy of a man who does not know how to drive a car taking his sweetheart out for a ride.

The ride is sure to wind up more or less disastrously as it does in the case.

The comedy is uproariously funny.

WRIGHT AND WILSON HEAD

PETE PATE SHOW AT MASONIC

Pete Pate, the well known theatrical producer sends one of his synopated stepper Companies to play a three-day engagement in this city which has already proven a success.

Both Wright and Wilson are comedians of the highest caliber and Pate is fortunate in securing two such capable stars. Ahy assisting these two are Jack C. Bell, a violinist de luxe, also handling the role of straight man. Edwin Grimes is billed as the one man jazz band. The Misses Myrtle Marsee and Iris Ragsdale are two clever terpsichorean artists who are highly commented on in former press criticisms and reviewers by the way they execute their dances.

The chorus is the outstanding feature of the Pete Pate shows. Pete claims with pride to have the prettiest and shapeliest line of beauties in musical comedy.

Mr. Cagge feels that he has booked the season's best bet in the "Synopated Steppers." The show will change wardrobe, scenery and program each night of their engagement here.

MASONIC TODAY.

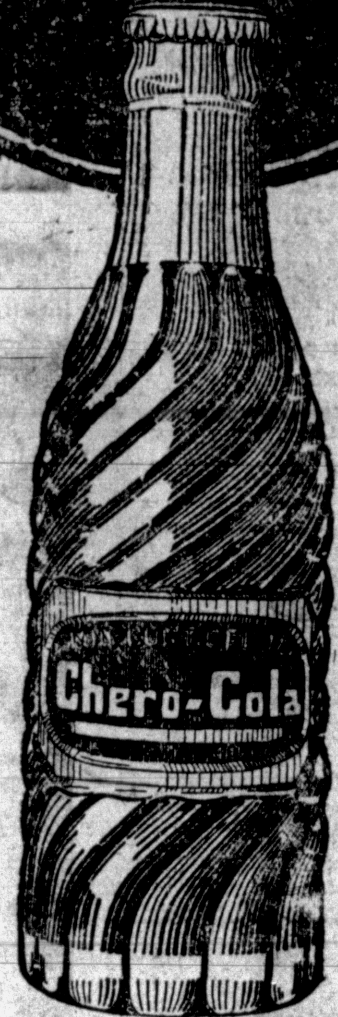

Can a woman be too true to her husband? Can she go too far in her loyal efforts to do his bidding?

These questions have been asked in hundreds of households throughout the country. Many a good wife has been compelled to pause in her domestic duties and ask herself whether she should carry out the dictates of her husband regardless of the consequences.

And it is with this that "The Broadway Madonna," showing at the Masonic, deals in vividly dramatic sequences.

The wife is completely dominated by the stronger will of her husband. She consents to act as his decoy in his scheme to prey upon a wealthy and impressionable young man. Out of this develops a regular maelstrom of human passions, the nature of which had best be withheld in view of the elements of mystery which the story is invested.
